$1,849,000 GRANT GIVEN MODEL CITIES

The Tacoma City Council approved a Resolution on Tuesday, October 31 accepting a $1,849,000 grant from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development to administer the Tacoma Model Cities Program.

The grant will be used to enable Tacoma to develop and carry out comprehensive demonstration program during the Second Action Year. This funding will assure operating money for Model Cities projects through September of 1973.

Subsequent to the City Council's approval, a contract accepting the grant was approved by the City's finance and legal departments, signed by Mayor Gordon Johnston, and taken to the HUD offices in Seattle.

Contract negotiations are presently underway with project operating agencies to continue many of the Model Cities projects which began during the First Action Year, and also to implement the new projects approved for the Second Action Year.

Enforcement Program Selective Traffic

Public awareness and voluntary compliance are two major keys to Tacoma's Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) as it gets underway December 1. Project Director, Lt. Robert H. McConnell, said the three-year, federally funded program would help curtail traffic accidents within the city and would develop specific enforcement countermeasures for reducing traffic accidents in the future.

"We plan on keeping the public informed of all our activities," McConnell explained. "Our public information campaign will help the public understand how STEP is progressing and explain some of the enforcement countermeasures which are going to come into play as the program continues."

McConnell said STEP was designed around a public awareness concept. He said the best enforcement techniques and designes in engineering could not prevent traffic accidents by themselves... only the public could through voluntary compliance to motor vehicle laws.

"While we do not exclude the importance of the traffic citation, we are going to be experimenting with several "alternatives" as we proceed with the project. The project's primary purpose will be the scientific evaluation of enforcement countermeasures rather than handing out tickets en masse," McConnell added.

The STEP project is one of six such projects in the U. S., all funded from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Tacoma's grant is for $695,000 for use over the next three years.

THE STEP project is employing several techniques of reaching the public. In the early stages of the project, one will be through the use of a mailer for enclosure with billings from the Public Utilities Department beginning in December.

This above will briefly explain the concept of STEP and provide information numbers for persons interested in obtaining speakers for meetings. Public awareness for the project will be stimulated through the use of placards for the sides of numerous buses operating within the city. Printed reminders of the STEP Project being a part of the Tacoma Police Department will be evident on all mail leaving the County-City Building or the Public Utilities Department. An extensive public speaking program is being scheduled to achieve first-hand contact with as much of the public as possible. Those wishing more information may call 593-4886, Tacoma Police Department.

"IS AMERICA REALLY READY?'

Our community has for a long time had a wonderful phrase.

When a person is ignorant, ill-equipped and ill-mannered we say, "He ain't ready."

We would like to ask are the people of America, white and black, ready?

Let's look at some key issues together. Crime, dope, drunk driving and poverty.

Each of those issues vitally affects all of us and not just in our tax and insurance rates.

If we the public were really ready, we could drastically reduce those four ills. Here is how:

If thousands upon thousands of us were to write our local, state, and national representatives that we are for gun control and will not vote for them unless they bring it to us. If we would insist on stern and quick punishment for weapon carrying, then you would see an about face in the tremendous numbers of hold-ups and shootings that occur all over this nation.

The same is true with dope. The user, the pushers and dealers are often known. The overseas sources are a matter of record, but drug use goes up because of pay off and an apathetic public.

Drunk driving costs us tens of thousands of lives yearly and even more mangled bodies. AND THE DRUNKS STAY ON THE ROAD TO ENDANGER YOUR CHILDREN'S LIVES.

Pressure on our elected officials would end all that nonsense. It's as if alcoholics had a lobby in Olympia and Washington, D.C.

Well it's time that decent, clean living and law abiding citizens got their say in.

Now to that fumbling, humbling, mumbling fight on poverty. If is a patchwork quilt of overlapping inefficiency. No less an authority then Senator Stuart Symington says that we are fighting a 350 million dollar yearly "secret war" in Laos. LET'S SPEND THAT MUCH ON OUR FELLOW AMERICANS.

Add one more card: peace, to fighting crime, dope drunken drivers and poverty and we will have a royal flush that makes American a winner again.

But are we ready? Will you send this article or your own note to Olympia and Washington D.C.?

Juvenile Problems Discussed At Model Cities Task Force Meeting

At their meeting on Monday, October 9, the Model Cities Law and Justice Task Force heard a report from the Committee on Juvenile Problems. This Committee has concerned itself with Juvenile problems relating to school.

In a discussion they had with Dr. Eugene Tone, Administrative Assistant of Pupil Personnel Services for the Tacoma Public Schools, Committee members learned that the usual procedure for the schools is to contact parents after disciplinary action has been taken with a student. If an arrest is made by the police department, contact with the parents is also made by the police. Dr. Tone then agreed to send out a note asking that parents be contacted before disciplinary action is taken.

The Committee members feel that it is equally important for parents to make a real effort to know what and how their children are doing. Too much blame is being put on the schools and police when a student gets in trouble. Parents should take the initiative in visiting the school and making themselves aware of how their children are really doing on a continuing basis.

MORE BLACK WOMEN DIE FROM CANCER THAN EVER BEFORE

According to Dr. Mildred I. Clarke reporting in last month's issue of Essence, some alarming statistics have recently been released from the Howard University School of Medicine which indicate an increase in the number of deaths among Blacks due to cancer; the leading threats to women being cancer of the breast and genital area. Dr. Clarke, in 1972 the American Cancer Society estimates some 43,000 new cases of uterine cancer will occur from which approximately 12,000 women will die.

Studies, including population statistics of the disease, have indicated there are certain ethnic and religious trends with regard to the incidence of uterine, or cervical, cancer. For instance, cases of carcinoma of the cervix is quite low in Jewish and Moslem women. And, it is believed that the practice of cricumsion of the males of these groups may be a preventative factor.

Early marriage and sexual exposure also seem to be contributing factors in the development of cervical cancer; early and prolonged trauma to the cervix as in the marital relations of very young women, or sexual relationships with many partners, are thought to be etiological factors. There also seems to be some degree of correlation between early and repeated childbirth and the disease; a higher incidence is revealed in women who have pregnancies before the age of 20, and it is thought that repeated trauma to the birth canal and cervix may possibly be instrumental in setting up a chronic type of infection which may be a focus for the development of cancer cells. The latter statement is somewhat substantiated by the fact that single women who have never had children report a low incidence of the disease.

Unfortunately, there are no specific signs or symptoms of cervical cancer; but because of its value in the detection and prevention of the disease, the Pap test is one of the most important discoveries of the century. This examination is painless and can be performed routinely by a gynecologist or family doctor, and Dr. Clarke emphasizes the importance of having a Pap smear performed yearly.

Carcinoma of the cervix continues to be a deadly killer of Black women; but when diagnosed in its early stages is highly treatable and virtually 100% curable. And, with the advent of mass screening programs by the American Cancer Society, clinics and private physicians, there is evidence of a definite decrease in cases of cervical cancer which have progressed into an advanced stage without detection.

Dr. Mildred I. Clarke

Don Phelps Named Alcoholism Director

If you think that you or your children might lose the battle of the booze, then remember the name Donald G. Phelps.

He is the federal government's new Director of the Division of Prevention National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism in HEW's Health Services and Mental Health Administration.

"Our new Institute has set two principal overall goals to reduce the enormous toll taken by alcoholism and alcohol abuse from our society today," says Dr. Morris E. Chafetz, NIAAA Director. "The most immediate goal is to assist in making the best alcoholism treatment and rehabilitation services available at the community level. The longer range goal, whose chief responsibility will belong to Mr. Phelps, will be to develop effective methods of preventing alcoholism and problem drinking."

Of special concern in Mr. Phelps' new job will be his role in directing the development of curriculum guidelines concerning the use and abuse of alcohol. In this program, NIAAA will devise educational criteria for the nation's students which will highlight information on the Institute's "responsible drinking" theme, and also explode the many drinking myths replacing them with factual material about using alcoholic beverages.

Other primary functions of Mr. Phelps' Prevention Division are: to develop public recognition of alcoholism as an illness; to encourage the health systems to accept alcoholism as a medical-social-behavioral problem; to develop public awareness of the properties of alcohol and its effects; and to produce a new national environment concerning the use and misuses of alcoholic beverages.

"Our philosophy concerning the use the alcohol is not one of pro or con," says Mr. Phelps. "We want to present the facts and leave the decision whether or not to drink to each individual. If one chooses to drink, then we strongly support what we call "responsible drinking; that is, drinking that neither harms the user, his family, nor society."

Before accepting his new position, Mr. Phelps was executive assistant to the president and director of personnel at Bellevue Community College, Bellevue, Washington. He is a former classroom teacher, elementary and junior high school principal and news commentator on KOMO radio and TV, Seattle.

Rhythmic Informal Modeling

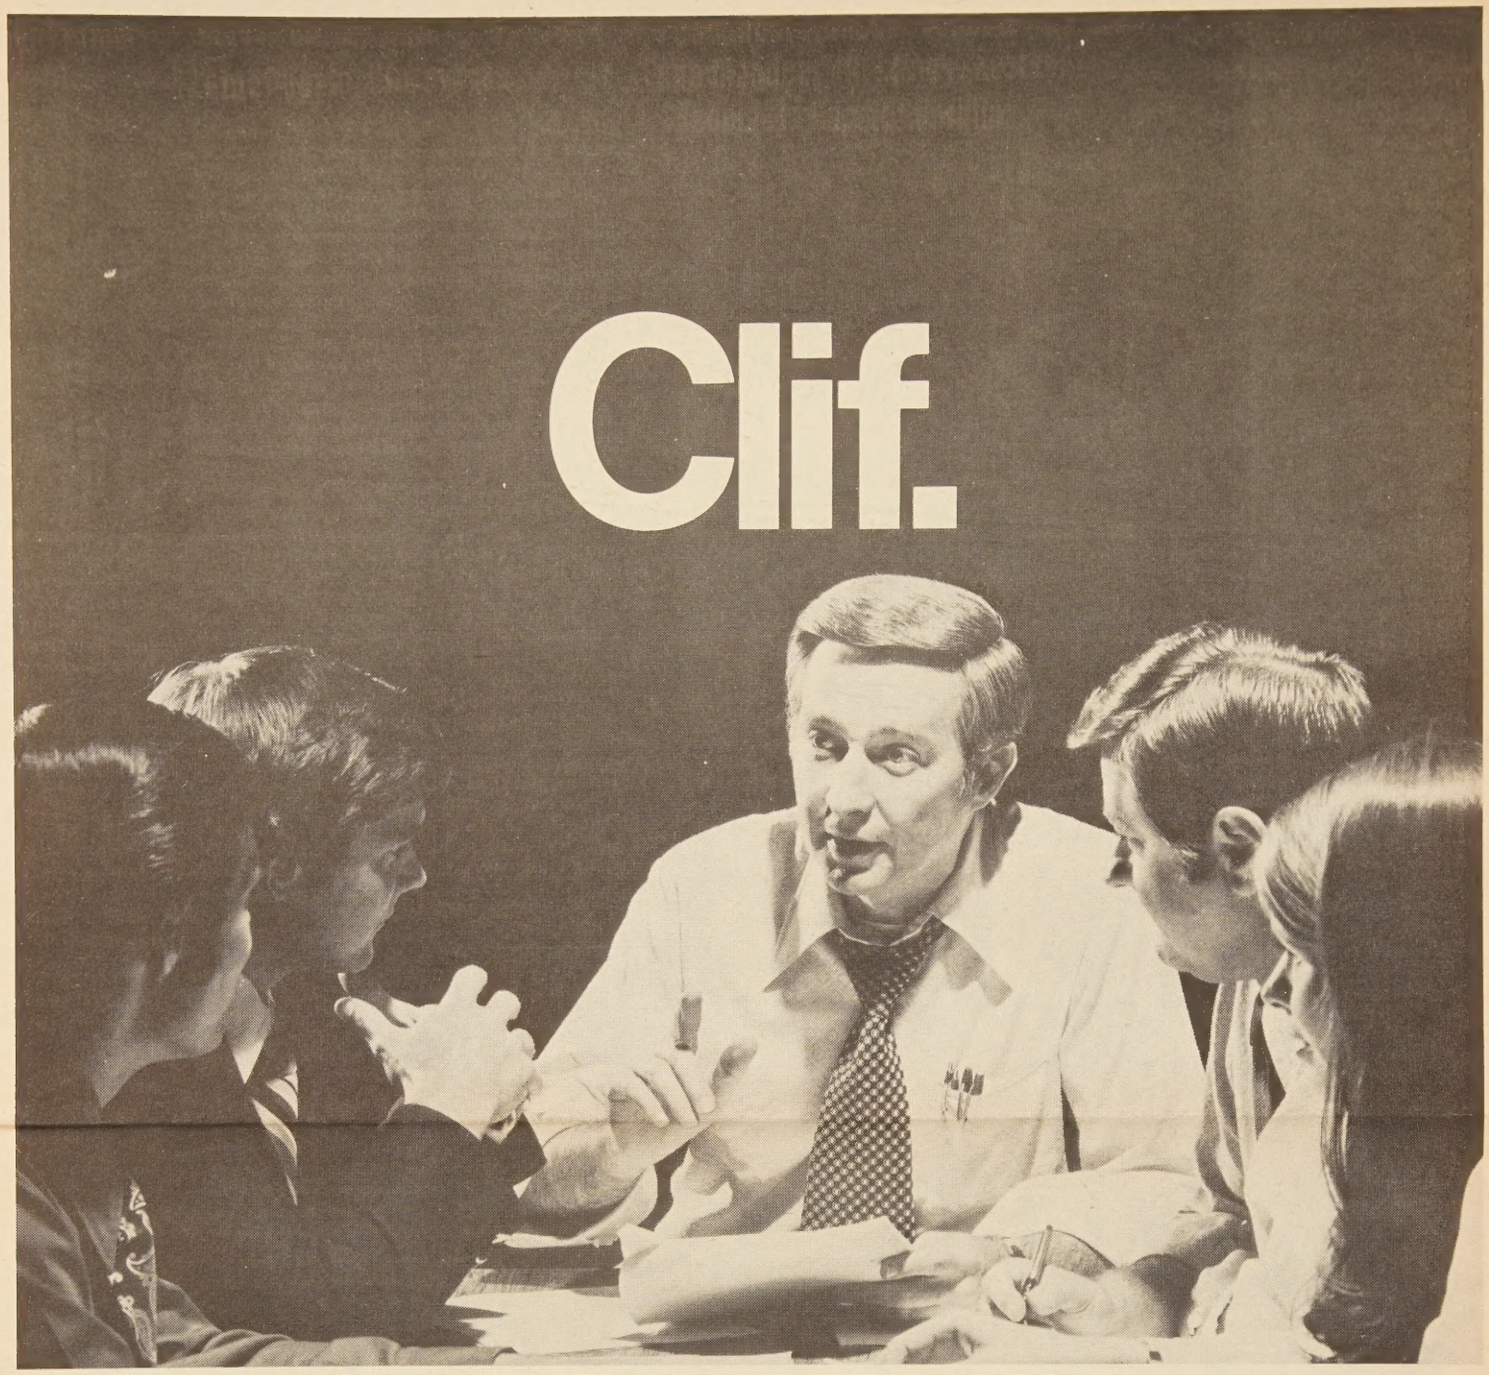
Dancing!!! Modeling!!! It's rhythmic informal modeling, a unique fashion presentation, at the president's luncheon and fashion show held during the recent National Media Women's Convention in Atlanta. Two hundred media women, delegates and friends watched with interest and amazement the winter collection of Burlington Bodies and panty hose.

The bodysuits in warm fall and pastel colors were designed with every feminine detail for performance on any scene. To form that put-together look, pantyhose was coordinated in the exact shades.

The show opened--zoom--with models wearing only bodysuits and matching pantyhose. In the scenes that followed today's fashions were coordinated to give the new elegant feminine look. Here we see the models in action, without the old blouse-tail problem.

The show closed with the presentation of two Burlington gifts (a bodysuit and matching pantyhose) to the persons holding the lucky card. The winners were Ms. Lois Alexander, national president of Media Women and Mrs. Ruth P. Scott of Atlanta.

The hosiery company was represented by Violet B. Johnson of Mark Hyman Associates of Philadelphia.



Clif Kirk manages the 34-man news department of Channel 7. Besides being anchorman for the Eyewitness News Team.

That means he puts in about four hours of preparation for every 30-minute news program. And spends the rest of his ten to twelve-hour day supervising the news cameramen, reporters, sound men and other Eyewitness News members.

It's a big job. But Clif Kirk is a big man. Probably the most sincerely professional and respected news director on the West Coast.

As a matter of fact, television stations in other cities have attempted to lure Clif away. He remains. Because he loves his work here and loves the Northwest.

"One man can't do it all. It takes teamwork."

Alone, Clif stands out. Together with the other Eyewitness Team members they're a combination that would be near the top in New York, San Francisco, Chicago or any other big city.

In Seattle, it's the most preferred news team on television.

With such natural ability and television exposure, you might think it would go to Clif's head. Not on your life.

Clif's humble response: "I don't know of any one-man team that's ever made it alone. Except maybe Bobby Fischer. And the last thing I want to be is a Bobby Fischer."

Clif is on the air with the Eyewitness News Team at noon and 6:30 p.m. weekdays. In between time, he's behind the scenes with the 9 a.m. and 11 p.m. news—as well as everything else that happens in news throughout the day.

FOOD EDITORS DEBBIE PROCTOR & JOCELYN C. OWENS

"Beef By Far, The Most Popular Of All Meats".

In 1854, the editors of Harpers Weekly, answered a controversial question as to what was America's favorite food. It was concluded that steak was the most universally enjoyed meat.

Flank, a cut of beef taken from the side of the Beef between ribs and hip is available as Flank steak and as Flank steak fillets. It is most often braised or broiled. For a Gourmet touch we suggest, *Rolled Stuffed Flank Steak, Broccoli with Cheese Sauce, Rich Puff Muffins & Fresh Home Baked Apple Honey Pie.

"Rolled Stuffed Flank Steak"

½ cup mushrooms sliced
2 onions chopped
3/4 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sage or thyme
2 tbl. cooking oil
1½ cups fine bread crumbs
2 stalks celery & leaves
2 medium carrots halved
1 Flank Steak (2 to 3 pounds)

Saute the Mushrooms & onions with seasonings in hot oil for 2 to 3 min. Add bread crumbs & mix throughly. Pound Flank Steak with a mallet or wooden potato masher. Spread stuffing on meat. Lay whole celery stalks with leaves & halved carrots on top of stuffing. Roll meat lengthwise & tie securely in 4 or 5 places. Wrap in foil. Roast in preheated moderate oven (300 degrees F.) for 2½ hours (last half hour uncover for browning) Baste throughly. Serve on hot platter. Remove strings and carve diagonally across the grain of the meat. Surround meat with Broccoli & Cheese sauce. A beautiful dish to serve that very special guest.

15th Spt Bde trail blazers call for Bunyan's blue ox

by 1st Lt. LOU DILISIO

The first of several 15th Spt Bde Forest Service-community relations projects was completed last week by a 15-man team from the 513th Trans Co.

Early on the second day of the exercise, the team was divided into two groups and equipped with axes, brush hooks, and chain saws. Group one departed to the Summit Lake Trail, and Group Two left for the Bearhead Mountain Trail. Upon arrival at the trail origins, both groups made commo checks with the base camp and began the clearing operation.

The trails, utilized throughout the year by hikers, hunters, and anglers, were blocked with branches and blowdowns from several seasons of storms and heavy snowfall. Radio calls to base camp made frequent reference to the steepness of the trails, and the need for a legendary logger's blue ox.

Although the day's work began with clear cloudless weather, rain clouds moved in by mid-day, followed soon by heavy rain and snow flurries. By the time the men returned to base camp, the popularity of C-rations and tent stoves had increased many-fold.

The trail clearing operation was the pilot project between the 15th Spt Bde and the White River Ranger District of Snoqualmie National Forest. HHC, 80th Ord Bn and the 295 Sup Co will be the next brigade units to lend their energies to the Forest Service in trail and shelter restoration projects.

83 start training with 3-39th Inf

Eighty-three "New Reliable" infantrymen began training in the 3/39th Inf with PT Monday morning. The first troop input to the 1st Bde unit, the men start AIT next week.

Sixty-eight of them reported to Co B, and 15 to HHC.

From welcomes to the division by Maj Gen William B. Fulton, Brigade Commander Col James V. Irons and 3/39th CO, Lt Col Milton A. Bertrand, the men move into their six-week training to qualify them in 11B (small arms infantryman), 11-C (mortar man) or 11-H (recoilless rifleman) MOS.

Maj Jimmie L. Garrett, battalion S-3, said plans call for the soldiers to train as a group except for specialized weapons training.

Last week, 18 "New Reliables" reported to Co C, and Maj Garrett expressed hope the battalion will be filled and in training by the end of this month. The battalion is the second in the 1st Bde to receive trainees.

Mr. 4,000 checks in

Sgt 1/c Maxie L. Wright, Fort Ord's unit of choice liaison for the 9th Inf Div, welcomes the 4,000th soldier into the "Old Reliables." Pvt Lester E. Matter, 19, arrived at the California fort last week for basic training. He enlisted under the combat arms option for four years and a $1,500 bonus. He and his wife Irena have their home in Auburn, Wa.

9th Avn re-ups went sky high!

Six soldiers of the 9th Avn Bn "Wings of the Old Reliables" have taken a flyer on second enlistments.

The troopers boarded a UH-1 helicopter for re-up ceremonies conducted a thousand feet over Fort Lewis.

Reenlisting on high were Spec 4s William Mathieson, Christopher Bringegar, Bobby Nichols, Nolan Nichols, all of Co A and Samuel Spivey and Larry Mitchell, both of Co E.

The airborne oath-taking boosted the 9th Aviation's first quarter renlistment score to more than 400 per cent of the goal, earning it the Commander's Reenlistment Trophy for the period.

411 Trans is praised by IG, CG

A no-notice General Inspection that produced no unsatisfactory rating has brought the 411th Trans Co a commendation from the CG.

Maj Gen William B. Fulton, 9th Inf Div and Fort Lewis commander, told Maj Glaston J. Ford, Jr., company commander, that "the noteworthy performance of the 411th Trans Co is certainly an example for others to emulate."

The 180-man unit also showed itself a pace-setter in the post's Combined Federal Campaign, contributing more than $2400 in cash and pledges.

Adult Offender Outreach Project

The Adult Offender Outreach Project, located at 1301 South "K" Street was developed to provide services that will assist ex-offenders when returning back to our community. Basically, services rendered are employment placement, educational opportunities, counseling, and crisis intervention.

The Adult Offender Outreach Project was developed out of the community based organization, the Central Employment Agency, which has been an innovator of developing programs in education and Law & Justice, providing new concepts and solutions to the problems of the community since 1968.

The project is currently being Directed by John Pope and is administered by Central Employment Agency, whose Director is Joe Starling. At this time it should be noted that this is to clarify the previous article that appeared in the News Tribune, which had these facts confused.

The Adult Offender Outreach Project is unique in that it can go into the prison and work with administrators, counselors, and meet with the inmates to arrange for a proper release program designed to assist the individuals needs so that he can return to the community to re-establish himself. This is done by Outreach Counselors.

The next step then is to arrange for the individual's release by coordinating with prospective employers, colleges, half-way houses, social agencies, other resources that are needed to establish the individual once he is out. This is done by the Occupational Developers and Interviewers.

Problems that individuals ordinarily encounter is brought to the attention of the Outreach Counselor, which follow-up on the individual's progress.

The Adult Offender Outreach Project readily assists the entire community in obtaining meaningful employment and helping with other needs. The project works with the concept that the community is plagued with lack of employment, lack of educational/vocational opportunities; depending on unlawful activity to survive.

Cutting down the number of people that need to choose this way to survive is one of our main objectives, to fight sending our citizens to jail. Also, coordination with the political, social, and economic systems to be responsive to the individual needs of the people which they disadvantage and to help eliminate these barriers and service the community in positive ways is another main objective.

This is a small introduction to what is availbale in your community. We hope you utilize these services and in turn support them. For more information come in to our office or call us at BR2-9386. Remember our office address is 1301 South "K" Street.

Slade Gorton Works To Solove Auto Repair Grievances

Tacoma, November 1--Attorney General Slade Gorton today announced that his Tacoma office has begun referring autorepair complaints to a grievance board recently established by the Independent Garage Owners of Pierce County.

The announcement came in a joint press conference with Mort Kimball, president of the association, and Mitch Mullan, chairman of the legislative committee.

Gorton said that after his office forwards a complaint, the grievance board in turn refers it to the subject garage with the request that the problem be resolved if at all possible.

If a disagreement develops between the garage and the consumer, the grievance board will arrange for a suitable professional to inspect the car.

After such an inspection, the board will report back to Gorton's office with its findings and suggestions.

"This is another step forward," Gorton commented, "In working with the responsible business community to encourage consumer awareness and self regulation. In the long run, this will help people as consumers and also as taxpayers."

"This is a sincere effort," Kimball noted, to improve not just our image but our industry. In the 1970's, it helps to have a specific program for consumer awareness to assist the individual businessmen." Kimball also is public-relations chairman for the state association.

The Attorney General's Office has similar working relations with TV and small-appliance dealers in Tacoma, with the state association of employment agencies, and with the TV dealers in Seattle.

Such arrangements "are the wave of the future," according to Gorton. "We simply can't afford to ignore the legitimate business group while at the same time having an ever-larger government involvement to solve problems which could be prevented by self-regulation."

The Good Samaritan

Although his prototype lived 2,000 years ago, the Good Samaritan is as real today as he was in Biblical times.

Traditionally, Samaritans are pictured as bearded ascetics in flowing Middle Eastern robes. While they followed many Judaic beliefs, they lived and worshiped apart. They set up their own temple atop Mount Gerizim which, they believed, was the only land not covered by the Deluge.

And, of course, they were helpful. The Bible has immortalized the Samaritan who helped the victim of a highway robbery.

Yet the fact is, you can find Good Samaritans in your own home town: the boy scout doing his daily good turn . . . the high school girl who reads an hour a day to the neighborhood blind man . . . the twice-a-week volunteer at the town's understaffed hospital.

And the chances are that you have dozens of neighbors who qualify as Good Samaritans even though they themselves might be surprised to hear it. They're the contributors to the annual Catholic Relief Services Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign — the men, women and children who donate clothes, shoes and bedding for distribution among with world's poor.

You can join their ranks by taking your gift of used but serviceable clothing to the nearest Catholic church in November. Your contributions will be distributed without regard to race, nationality or religion in more than 70 impoverished countries. And appropriately, a share will go to the Holy Land — where the Good Samaritan concept had its beginning.

GUEST EDITORIAL

At a time when the tragedies of Vietnam and Bangladesh are still unresolved, the world's compassion is being claimed by a new man-made disaster: the Burundi massacres.

Rooted in political chaos, the killings already have left a shocking death toll — 80,000 according to government figures and perhaps 200,000 by other estimates. Catholic Relief Services, the only American voluntary agency with a welfare program in the stricken African republic, adds that the uprising has forced 200,000 people to abandon their farms.

It is against this heart-rending cry for new assistance that Catholic Relief Services is conducting this year's annual Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign. For in addition to food to stave off famine, Burundi's tortured population desperately needs clothing and blankets. Take your usable surplus garments and bedding to the nearest Catholic church in November. Your contribution will help to meet the requirements for immediate relief and start Burundi on the long road back to normalcy. Merely to make a beginning on rehabilitation, it is estimated that each family will need $100 worth of materials.

Catholic Relief Services already is pouring thousands of dollars worth of food, medicines, shelter materials and clothing into Burundi. But the agency, which operates in 70 poverty-stricken countries, has even more staggering claims on its resources. There are — to name only two — Vietnam and Bangladesh . . .

A BUSINESSMAN's success had gone to his head. His constant bragging was beginning to grate on his wife's nerves. After one such session, during which the husband had compared himself favorably with everyone from J. Paul Getty to John D. Rockefeller, he turned to her and asked, "Do you know how many really outstanding business leaders there are in the world today?"

"No," replied the wife quietly, "but I know there is one less than you think."

Hobby Corner for collectors

HARDWARE OF HISTORY. One of the most international guns was the German Model 1896 Military Mauser. A favorite of Chinese Troops, it was once carried in battle during the Boer War in 1899 by Winston Churchill, and was also used by the German Army in the early 1900's.

TAMING THE WEST. This American Classic Model 1873 is now actually a model. It is a replica of a pistol that helped win the West. For a free catalog of these and other machined metal authentic collectors items that are impossible to fire, write to Replica Models, Inc., 610 Franklin Street, Alexandria, Virginia 22314.

A HELPING HAND ACROSS THE YEARS

Social security . . . pensions . . . annuities . . . savings. These concepts — the backbone of security for America's senior citizens — are as alien as Martians to most of the world's elderly.

When the years pile up, the lucky ones in Asia, Africa and Latin America can perhaps expect a little help from relatives, often themselves living on the ragged edge of destitution. But much of the impoverished two-thirds of mankind depends on the generosity of Americans and other more affluent peoples.

For nearly a quarter of a century, retired Americans have joined other donors in contributing to the Catholic Relief Services Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign. They know that, taken to their nearest Catholic church in November, their surplus clothing will be distributed where it is needed most: among the poor of all races and religions in over 70 Third World countries.

And to American retirees, there is a special satisfaction in knowing that their gifts make somebody's golden years glitter a little.

COMMON DENOMINATORS

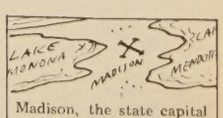
The little girl with the winning smile has something in common with millions of other kids all over the world. Her total wardrobe consists of the clothes she is wearing.

Common sense tells you that this shouldn't be; that no child should lack for clothes to sustain warmth, protection and peace of mind.

And, hopefully, common compassion will move you to contribute whatever clothing you can to the Catholic Relief Services' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign, in progress during November.

The clothing you donate to your local Catholic church will be distributed to the needy, in more than 70 developing countries overseas.



Madison, the state capital of Wisconsin, is built on an isthmus, lying between Lake Monona and Lake Mendota.

Cellers 'final' battle

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Manny Celler won his last battle in Congress.

The 84-year-old Congressman from Flatbush, Emanuel Celler, dean of the House and chairman of the Judiciary Committee, went to the aid of a bill that might otherwise have died.

The bill was not one of the momentous pieces of legislation to pass Congress this year. It would merely extend the expiration date of all present copyrights to Dec. 31, 1974.

Vietnam war ending soon?

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The White House announced that an agreement would be signed "within a matter of weeks or less" ending the war in Vietnam and bringing home U. S. Troops and prisoners of war.

TRUE STRENGTH does not depend on the size of one's biceps. It is related to a sense of purpose, the ability to think and analyze, the proper respect for human response.
